

Anna Guerra

Graduated in Economics in 1996 at the University of Parma, she is a Chartered Accountant enrolled in the Register of Auditors. After a brief experience in self-employment as a trainee, she turned her professional future to the Experimental Station for the Food Preserving Industry. In 1997 she was hired by the Institute in the Administrative Area. After a few months she was placed in the Personnel Office of which she became Manager after a few years and since January 2008 she has been responsible for the Finance and Control and Administrative Area. In her capacity she collaborates with the Directorate General of the internal organization in order to maintain relations with the staff and direct collaborators in the full range of attainable efficiency, adapting the general principles to the particular reality that characterizes a Public Economic Research Body and maintaining relations with institutions and companies that interface with the Institute for the preliminary aspects of the activity as a whole.
